Impartiality Statement

ETHIC Intelligence has been committed, since its inception in 2006, to guaranteeing the highest professionalism and total impartiality in its certification activities.

ETHIC Intelligence, a The Red Flag Group company, attests to its respect for all of the ISO/IEC 17021-1 & ISO/IEC 17021-9 standards' requirements, particularly those concerning its obligation for impartiality.

To ensure that ETHIC Intelligence decisions related to the certification activity are taken objectively with no undue influence or stake, I have entrusted Philippe Montigny, founder of ETHIC Intelligence to chair, as an external expert, both the Technical Committee granting certifications and to chair the Impartiality Committee whose decisions can be accessed by anyone, inside or outside ETHIC Intelligence.

ETHIC Intelligence ensures that its employees and auditors will not yield to any commercial, financial or other form of pressure regardless of nature, from clients who might try to influence ETHIC Intelligence decisions.

ETHIC Intelligence management is committed to preventing any form of conflict of interest which could affect the impartiality of its decisions. The Top Management has implemented a management system to evaluate, monitor and document any risk of conflict of interest related to its certification activity.
